FOREWORD

Footprints of the past, present and future are signs of our lives. As we, the students of Appalachian, walk from class to class, we may look upon each step as a stride in life. With our hopes pinned on our lives after graduation, we must realize that each stride taken in Appalachian High School leads to still greater strides in our adult lives. Let us set our goals higher and our strides greater as we look toward the future and what it can hold for each of us.

FEATURES

Filling a student's shoes is a very unique position. It requires that the person be a scholar, citizen, musician, athlete and a well liked person.

From the baseball diamond to

walking to and from classes, the day of the student is filled with a great deal of activity.

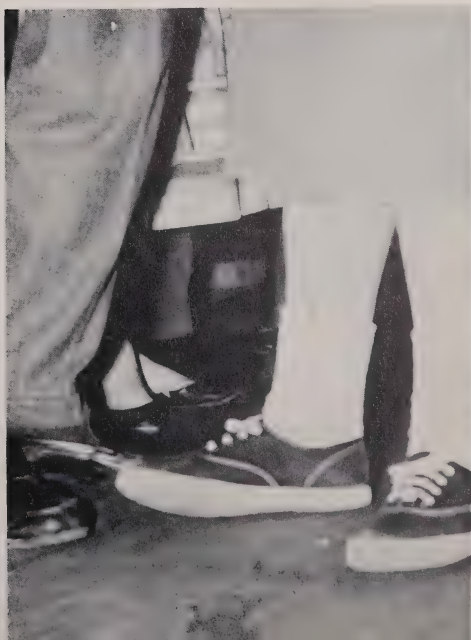

Student's shoes come in a variety of sizes, personalities, activities and interests. All are an important part of the school and the student.

The undertakings in Physical Education and the changes from class to class with,

band and other subject matter make up the position of the shoe, as well as, the person who has to fill it.

DEDICATION...

We dedicate this, the 1959 Laurel, to a man whose friendly nature and sound leadership have set a sterling example here at Appalachian; a man who has been a friend to those who have needed friendship; one whose shoes would be hard to fill.

We dedicate this edition of The Laurel to Mr. Tait.
